Results-driven and experienced professional with business and technical acumen and keen ability to partner across a wide variety of job functions in order to drive growth and increase profits. Hard working and reliable, I am equally comfortable doing frontend graphics work and building out functions or working on the backend data structure. As a project manager I am organized and foster an environment of trust where team members can grow and share ideas. I am looking to join a growing team that appreciates enterprising, dependable teammates where I can continue honing my skills as a developer.
